ALGORITHM

Building algorithms without code refers to the process of designing and implementing algorithms using visual interfaces or graphical tools rather than traditional programming languages.It allows individuals to create complex workflows, automate tasks, and solve problems without writing code directly.

FLOWCHAR

A flowchart is a visual representation of a process or algorithm using symbols interconnected with arrows. It provides a structured way to illustrate the sequence of steps, decision points, and actions within a system.